GERMAN MINISTER

making $8,000,000 in the market on December 20, and he thought that should be investigated.

At that point Chairman Henry took up a list of cabinet officers and asked Lawson if he had "connected" each of them with the leak. Coming to the name of Secretary Lansing, Lawson said he had not made a suggestion of him in the affair in connection with the names the congressman had given him as being parties to the "leak."

"Do you refer to Secretary Lansing in any connection?" Mr. Henry asked.

"Yes," Lawson replied.

Henry then accused Lawson of dragging the name of Lansing into the hearing and Lawson flared up furiously.

"I have held the names of Lansing and the German ambassador out of this," he said. "I have kept quiet when I have been charged with withholding information, which I have not, and I have been libeled in the press of the country as a result. One of your own members has said on the floor that it was a matter of dispute as to whether I should be in jail or a lunatic asylum. I will not have this thrown on me."

Lawson then related in detail how he had come to Washington at the request of Chairman Henry and had called on him at his office; how Henry had told him that he wanted his help to run down the leak charges.

Mr. Luce was a schoolmate of R. B. Govan and the latter tendered the railroad men a dinner party at the Mizpah. The afternoon and evening were spent by the visitors greeting business and mining men and other citizens. Mr. Luce said to the Bonanza:

"All the region west of Ogden is suffering from a scarcity of coal. San Francisco is running short. The Union Pacific is now taking empties and the D. & R. G. will soon be able to relieve the situation. Our company already has cars at Ogden for the Denver & Rio Grande. The situation is bound to improve shortly."

"I am pleased to note that local dealers, those in Tonopah particularly, have not advanced prices of coal materially because of the fuel shortage."

"I like the spirit evidenced in Tonopah. It is not grasping. It is liberal. It is confident. I find your people optimistic as to the mining situation, and with good reason. Although there will be a slowing down in certain lines after the war, I am sure that silver will maintain its own and will probably be stronger."

"The business of our company in 1916 was a great deal stronger than in 1915. We are endeavoring to do what we can in reciprocity, realizing that whatever helps the country helps us. Not only in mining, but in agriculture, stock raising and other industries, Nevada is steadily and rapidly moving to the front."

This morning's train from the south brought the private car Mizpah, bearing President Cotter, General Superintendent Foster and Chief Engineer Catermole of the Tonopah and Goldfield. They stopped over here and the Southern Pacific officials continued on in the private car to Reno.

do nothing more. We cannot afford to give the impression that we are chasing after peace at all costs. After the entente allies have put out this highly ambitious program, an announcement of the firm and moderate German terms of peace would by contrast probably be interpreted by our adversaries as an indication of weakness, and would be used by them to encourage their people to fight on. Our people would not understand any further effort by us for the introduction of peace after the entente's declaration. We have to consider public opinion here."

"Do you think that after an interval there will be any possibility of an offer of mediation for peace being accepted by both sides?" the minister was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "The desire for peace of all the peoples—peoples, mind you, I say, not governments—is so strong that after the entente has had another try with a new offensive, after it has seen the fruitlessness of all the endeavors to crush the military strength of the central powers, there may be a better possibility of negotiating a satisfactory and reasonable peace."

EFFORTS TO CEMENT

Chairman of the national committee. They characterized the selection as affronting to every Progressive voter and a reflection on Willcox. Some think the choice of Adams a step toward dual control of the committee, sharing the direction with Willcox.

Perkins and Colby in a statement demanded a meeting of the entire national committee to rescind the action in appointing Adams. They charged the "old guard" with taking control.

The statement said the action yesterday justified the fears that during the last campaign that behind the Hughes cloak machine leaders would handle the organization against public interest. This feeling is blamed for the loss of several states by the Republicans.

Lawson said he thanked Henry and urged that they talk freely and in confidence. Henry, he said, explained his position as chairman of the committee, charged with looking into all information that might bear on the investigation. Congress wanted something tangible, he quoted Henry as saying, and add that the chairman asked him to give him any information that he had about any individuals involved.

Lawson further declared that Henry pleaded with him at the end of their second conference to cease urging an investigation of the "leak" charges. It would be a serious thing to the country, Lawson quoted Henry as saying, to have an inquiry at this time. It might be possible, however, Lawson said, Henry pointed out, to inaugurate a wide inquiry into the stock market system in the course of thirty days or so. Such an inquiry being to Lawson's liking and as he had repeatedly stated that the "leak" now under fire had no interest for him, he said he readily agreed.

At that point Lawson reiterated his statement that he never told Henry nor had he told anyone that he had direct information regarding a leak.

Chairman Henry then told of his first meeting with Lawson.

Regarding the subpoenaing of Morgan, Davidson and other financiers, Henry said he did not know now the specific reason. Harrison thought he might get valuable information.

Manager Bruce, of the Tonopah division of the Nevada-California Power company has received a set of photos from the Inyo county headquarters showing the terrible damage wrought by the blizzard of Christmas week, when the southern Nevada camps were shut down owing to the suspension of electric service. One picture shows three wires down near Laws in a small forest. The wires are festooned among the trees and by comparison with other objects it is apparent that there was not less than six inches of snow and ice on the transmission wires. Another picture represents a steel tower crumpled up like so much tissue paper from a height of about 25 feet above the snow. The lattice work on the upper structure crashed over to the ground, borne down by the enormous weight imposed by the wet snow. Another tower shut up like a jackknife, the upper part being held closely against the base by the pressure of the wires, but the arms holding the heavy pottery insulators tore through the side of the framework almost to the opposite support. The perspective indicates that three or more towers, seen dimly in the distance, met with the same fate. Near Laws one of the largest poles was snapped off sharply as though cut through with a saw, showing a clean break with only the outer end splintered.

"Jack Frost's Christmas Day Decorations" is the label of the camera man for a picture showing the wires strung across a valley near Laws, Cal., and another part of three miles of prostrated line near Laws appears flat in an irrigating ditch. Another clear cut photo shows a quarter inch wire covered so deeply with snow and ice that a heavy fur gauntlet hanging over the mass only reaches half way around.

RECEIVES SAD NEWS
P. C. Fialer, editor of the Miner, this morning received a wire telling of the death of his sister, Anna, in Philadelphia yesterday. The young lady had been ill but a short time and her death was unexpected. She had visited Mr. Fialer in Tonopah several times.

TAKEN TO ASYLUM

Alvins Zellers, the colored youth who was recently released from the Napa insane asylum and later determined here to be insane, was taken to the institution for the insane at Reno today. He was in the custody of Parley Wheeler, the veteran attendant of the asylum.

ORDINANCE PASSED

The county commissioners yesterday afternoon enacted an ordinance compelling the closing of all bowling alleys within the limits of the town of Tonopah between the hours of 11:30 p. m. and 10 a. m., except those in basements or in stone buildings. The board then adjourned until the 24th.

NOTICE TO BUSINESS MEN

All people engaged in business in the town of Tonopah who have not paid their town licenses heretofore are requested to pay their arrears at once.

In the case of Board of County Commissioners of Nye county, appellant, vs. Henry Schmidt and Russell Williams, respondents, the supreme court of the state of Nevada, on June 1, 1916, and again on December 15, 1916, decided that the Board of County Commissioners sitting as a town board of Tonopah, are authorized to levy and collect a town license on all business conducted in the town of Tonopah.

Please pay your back and present town licenses to me at once.

AMUSEMENTS

BUTLER THEATER

The feature at the Butler this evening is Dustin Farnum, the idol of the screen, in the famous stage success, "Davy Crockett," as done by Frank Mayo. Dustin Farnum goes through more perils and performs more daring feats in "Davy Crockett" than in any of his previous photo-plays, such as riding an unconquerable horse, a rescue through flames, holding a door against the assault of a pack of real wolves, and a number of other stunts. The big grey timber wolves that perform some stirring scenes leap the full height of the door in throwing their weight against it. These scenes taken of the animals in their natural surroundings are very interesting. And many scenes are shown which could not possibly be produced in the stage version of this celebrated play. The preliminary reel will be Burton Holmes travels, "In British Egypt."

Tomorrow, the feature will be changed from that advertised in the weekly program; it will be "A Message to Garcia," a dramatic story based on the famous essay by Elbert Hubbard and featuring Mabel Trunnelle and Robert Connors. Thursday, "The Light That Failed."

A. & B. THEATER

The Red Feather play, "If My Country Should Call," will be filmed here this evening with a caste that is without a peer on the stage. This is a patriotic picture of mother love and war that should not be missed. Margaret Ardath voices this instinctive repugnance carried to its ultimate conclusion, if no stronger sentiment were to intervene. Patriotism is not a solely masculine virtue. Women can be aroused to cheerful sacrifice in the defense of their country as readily as men. Her country is not invaded, but threatened. Her concern of hers is a corner of Mexico? And Hearst International cartoon. Tomorrow, "The Velvet Paw," featuring Gail Kane and House Peters, in five reels, and Hearst International Weekly.

OFF FOR WARMER PLACE

Matthew Bartholemew Nelson, better known as the "Big Finn," who has been foreman of the Miner for the past half dozen years, left yesterday in his silver for Jerome, Arizona. He was accompanied by Tom Uland, who has been a hoist man in this camp for a
